Dear [redacted]

We are pleased to invite you to participate in a symposium on "The Reagan Administration and the First Amendment," to be held at The University of Michigan Law School in Ann Arbor on April 19 and 20. The symposium will include panel discussions, a number of 15 to 45 minute speeches, and question and answer sessions involving the audience. You are welcome to participate as a panel member, to deliver prepared remarks, or to do both.

The symposium is being sponsored by The University of Michigan Law School, The University of Michigan Office of the Vice President for Student Services, The Michigan Law Review, the Law School Student Senate, the Michigan Student Assembly, the ACLU, and numerous other organizations.*

Michigan Law Professors Yale Kamisar, Lee Bollinger, Fred Schauer, and Christina Whitman will be participating in the symposium, which will be moderated by Professor Schauer. In addition, Columbia University Law Professor Vincent Blasi, University of Chicago Law Professor Geoffrey Stone, Floyd Abrams, Morton Halperin, and journalists Nat Hentoff and Fred Friendly will be attending. Other prominent legal scholars, historians, journalists, and practicing attorneys, as well as other representatives from the White House and the Justice Department, have been invited. Our objective is to present a balanced discussion on the Administration's policies that concern the First Amendment.

Among the topics that will certainly be discussed at the symposium are:

1. the "pre-publication review" requirement placed on government officials with access to sensitive compartmental information;
2. the upgrading of categories of "classified" information;
3. changes in the scope of the Freedom of Information Act;
4. the withholding of visas to foreigners invited to speak in the United States;
5. limitations on the entry of foreign films and publications;

6. limitations on university scholars' discussion and publication of unclassified scientific information;
7. restrictions on the media during the rescue operation in Grenada;
8. efforts to restrain the publication of an allegedly libelous judicial attack on Justice Department prosecutors.

If you wish to participate in the symposium, or would like to discuss it further, please feel free to call us, or Professor Schauer at (313) 763-9634. If you are able to participate, we will gladly make travel and accommodation arrangements for you, and will pay all travel, accommodation and meal expenses.

We apologize for the short notice, and hope you will be able to join us. We look forward to hearing from you.

Sincerely yours,

Peter Levine
